

Bangladesh Journal of Public Administration

EDITORIAL TEAM (Volume 30, Number 3 (Special Issue), 2022)

EDITORIAL BOARD

Chief Editor

Ramendra Nath Biswas

Rector

Bangladesh Public Administration Training Centre

Senior Editor

Dr. Md. Mohoshin Ali

MDS (R&C)

Bangladesh Public Administration Training Centre

Editor

Dr. Md. Zohurul Islam

Director (R&D)

Bangladesh Public Administration Training Centre

Members

Abu Naser Mohammad Sajidul Ahsan

DD (Publication)

Alina Aktar

DD (PPR)

Mst. Masuma Arefin

DD (RC)

Afia Rahman Mukta

SRO

Mohammad Mamun

SRO

Bangladesh Journal of Public Administration
Volume 30, Number 3 (Special Issue), 2022

CONTENTS

Articles	Page
What Motivates to Transfer of Training? Empirical Analysis of Selected Training Institutions Md. Zohurul Islam and Shamim Hosen	1
The Role of Citizen Charter in Accelerating Public Service Delivery in Land Management: A Case Study of Upazila Land Offices Dr. Md. Sanwar Jahan Bhuiyan, Dr. Md. Shafiul Islam, Mohammad Mamun and Shamim Hosen	25
Improving ICT Literacy through Participatory Approach: A Study on Human Capital Development Projects under LGSP in Bangladesh S. M. Mehedi Hasan, Md. Siddiqur Rahman, Md. Mizanur Rahman, Mohammad Mamun and Dr. Md. Moshirur Rahman	51
Disaster Management, Development and Sustainability Nexus: Bangladesh perspective Mohammad Tarikul Islam, PhD and Mohammad Rezaul Karim, PhD	80
Exploring the Training Spectrum: A Case of 60-hour Long Training in a Year for the Public Servants of Bangladesh Mehedi Masud	97

Editorial

Public Administration has got its significant paradigm shift from its past to present. Public Administration work process simplified by its general need and demand for delivering services in a given time to maximized satisfaction of service seekers. Country like Bangladesh enacted different actions for service delivery and building capacity for the organizational people management. Bangladesh Public Administration Training Centre (BPATC) playing a pivotal role for human resource development of the public and private sector executives. Also, providing research and publication note or output for the government as a guideline for making policy of the state. This special issue of Bangladesh Journal of Public Administration (BJPA) is combined of some empirical evidences, all those articles are the outcome of BPATC research findings written by different faculty members.

Islam, MZ and Shamim, H., have structured an article ‘What motivates to transfer of training? Empirical Analysis of Selected Training Institution’, the main objective of this article is to explore the factors influences on motivation to training transfer and to find out the relationship among the factors. Islam, MT and Karim, MR., have captured an article on ‘Disaster Management, Development and Sustainability Nexus: Bangladesh Perspective’ with the aims to assess the viewpoint on how political economy influence the government of Bangladesh on governance and institutional strengthening to help identify obstructions and opportunities for mainstreaming Disaster Management into development. Masud, M., written an article on ‘Exploring the Training Spectrum: A Case of 60-hour Training in a Year for the Public Servants of Bangladesh’, with the aim of exploring 60-hour training programme and its knowledge gap in literature for the public sector, focusing on the trainings offered to employees and its influence on their performance at work. Bhuiyan, MSJ., Islam, MS., Mamun, M., and Hosen, S., have contributed on ‘The Role of Citizen charter in Accelerating Public Service Delivery in Land Management: A Case Study of Upazila Land Offices’ with the aim to explore perception of service recipients about the citizen charter and factors affecting in implementation of the citizen charter.

All those articles are the outcome of empirical research funded by Bangladesh Public Administration Training Centre. Where a rigorous process is made to produce a research report by reviewing peer review formalities. This special issue of BJPA has an important and potential contribution in the academic and research field.